HIGH SCHOOL TEAM PLAYS AT OCONTO

Good Game is in Prospect—
American Legion Squad Meets Kewaunee

Kaukauna.—Fairly bristling with energy and a determination to play the Oconto high school off its feet, 15 members of the Kaukauna high school football team left Saturday morning by train for the northern town. With the two schools nearly the same size the rivalry is keen.

Play Kewaunee Sunday
Kaukauna American legion football team will play its fourth game of the season Sunday afternoon at Kaukauna ball park with a legion team from Kewaunee. It is probable that several regulars will not be in the line Sunday because of their absence from the city. The vacancies will easily be filled from the list of 28 men who turn out every week, without materially weakening the line.

Announcement has been made by Manager Ronnicke that a game has been scheduled with the Little Chute team for Sunday, Oct. 22. Little Chute has the material for a good team and no doubt the squad will give Kaukauna more trouble than any other team this season.

ULTRA-MODERNISM SHARPLY ATTACKED BY CLUB SPEAKER

Mrs. Modern Literature and Modern Journalism Described as Sensual

In a scathing arraignment of current day literature in which she declared the latest novels and the American newspapers are reeking with sensualism and morbidity which she termed "ultra-modernism." Mrs. Rose V. S. Berry of Berkeley, Cal., chairman of fine arts of the General Federation of Women's clubs, warned the Wisconsin Federation of Women's clubs Friday afternoon against the purchase of the latest "five best sellers."

The books Mrs. Berry mentioned were "Moon Cal," "Main Street," "Brimming Cup," "Lulu Bet" and "Broken Soil." She admitted these books contain pages of graphic description and dramatic situations but she insisted they deal with the commonplace, merging into the sordid and the sensual.

Literature, she declared, should deal with the spiritual and not the materialistic. It should appeal to the best nature of the reader and not drag him into the mud and mire of human existence. "Jazz," she said, "is the same in music as morbidity and sensualism in literature. What kind of people are we," she shouted, "that we let the newspapers think the kind of stuff they print is what we want to read?"

While painting and sculpture did not come in for a share of the attack Mrs. Berry pointed out certain changes which are making themselves felt in these branches of the fine arts. Artists, she said, no longer intend painting sunsets and scenery but are contemplating the depiction of emotions which they feel on viewing these things. Just what effect this would have on the future of the art she did not predict.

She blamed the wickedness of "ultra-modernism" on the questioning attitude of the American people today which she declared was a direct consequence of this country's participation in what she termed the "modern crusade" of three years ago.

"People are questioning everything good," she said. "They are questioning the government, the church and the fundamentals of our civilization. They feel that the good things are found wanting and are turning to materialism and animalism. The only way to turn the tide of affairs is to have nothing to do with exponents of the baser things. The only way to discourage the trend of the 'best sellers' is to quit buying them. 'I believe that every man a job, every woman a job and everybody loving their jobs is the only cure for 'ultra-modernism'."

Women Must Be Careful To Save Voting Rights

Women of Wisconsin will have to be extremely careful that no legislative measure be introduced which will impair their recently won right of voting. Mrs. Louis Kahlenburg of Madison, chairman of the legislative committee of the Wisconsin Federation of Women's clubs, told the women's clubs in convention here Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Kahlenburg spoke on the "scope and aim of legislative committee work." She said the committee never has supported bills which did not have some considerable backing of public sentiment and that it has never asked the enactment of measures which would benefit only a few. The committee, she said, has always stood behind measures for pure food and will continue to do it. It will also fight for the passage of educational measures. She introduced other members of the legislative committee who told of the special work they are doing. This ranges from "lobbying" before committees of the legislature to sending out letters appealing for the support of the local women's clubs in bringing pressure to bear on their legislators for or against certain bills. An appeal was made for more money so that the committee could work more effectively.

Mrs. Dennison Wheelock appeared before the convention accompanied by three Oneida women and a little Indian girl who was introduced as a "real American" and received a hearty ovation from the assemblage. It was pointed out that while there is much talk of "Americanizing" other people and races, the original American is forgotten.

Clubs were requested to take more interest in educational work among the Indians in order that they may be granted the full privileges of citizenship and hope was expressed that Indian women would form clubs and become affiliated with the Wisconsin Federation of Women's clubs.

At the close of the afternoon's program, visiting delegates were given a reception by Lawrence College at Russell Sage and Ormsby Halls.

YOUNGEST VISITOR IS TWO YEARS OLD

Little Helen Louise Cornelius was perhaps the youngest person attending the twenty-fifth convention of the Wisconsin Federation of Women's clubs here. She says she likes it and will come again.

Helen Louise is not more than two years old. She is here with her mother, who has charge of the Indian exhibit in the Congregational church. According to Helen, she goes often with her mother to attend meetings and she would rather do that than anything else she knows. She wandered about the exhibits showing a fondness for the posters from the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association which display Santa Claus in a prominent place.

POURS KEROSENE ON FIRE; LEAVES WIDOW

G. B. Thomas, corner of State and Lawrence sts., received a letter Friday announcing a fatal accident that befell his brother-in-law, a Mr. Meyers, Hillsboro, Vernon Co., whose family has frequently visited Appleton.

Mr. Meyers arose at 5 o'clock one morning this week to build a fire and in order to hasten matters poured a quantity of kerosene on the fuel. There was evidently live coals in the stove for an explosion instantly followed and Mr. Meyers' night robe was set on fire.

Mrs. Meyers, who was in a precarious condition in an adjoining room, attempted to smother the flames by wrapping the bed clothes around her husband, but they instantly ignited and made the situation still more alarming.

Mr. Meyers was terribly burned and survived only a few hours. Mrs. Meyers collapsed after her experience and for a time it was feared she too would succumb. Besides his widow the decedent left four children, the youngest of whom is less than a week old.

LEGION PLANS OBSERVANCE OF ARMISTICE DAY

Dinner for Legion Members and Public Ceremony Among Tentative Plans...

Preparations soon will be started by Oney Johnston post of the American legion for proper observance of armistice day, Nov. 11, in Appleton. A meeting of the executive committee will be held next week, probably Tuesday evening, to discuss plans.

It is quite likely that there will be a supper and meeting for all members of the post on the evening of Armistice day.

Dance Saturday Night, Oct. 15, Elks Hall. Music by University Five. Admission $1.10.

Armistice day. This affair probably will be held in Elk club. Negotiations soon will be started to secure a prominent speaker. A squad composed of legion men may be detailed to lower the colors on Soldiers Square at the public observance at 11 o'clock on "Armistice day."

In accordance with the suggestion of President Warren G. Harding that the nation honor the memory of soldiers who lost their lives in the World war, Appleton people generally will be asked to stand with bowed and bared heads for a minute while services are held over the body of an "unknown" soldier in Arlington cemetery.

Prices are stiffening in many lines of building material. Not much, but just enough to indicate that those who require construction should plan to start work as early as possible. Our engineers will be pleased to take up with you any detail or problem of construction you may have.

AMERICAN SHIPS AND BANKS IN COMMERCE

Decision of the United States to participate vigorously and largely in international commerce is no longer optional with us. The circumstances of modern agriculture and manufacture, shaping steadily for years toward enlarged and growing surplus production, presaged the ultimate necessity of expanding the boundaries of our markets. Results effected by war's commerce and finance prevented us from choosing the time and arranging the plans for an aggressive engagement in universal trade competition, and arbitrarily made us the principal creditor-nation. The United States is now an actual contender for international trade. Offensively and defensively we are a world-trade power.

The changed situation of the United States, due to financial and commercial supremacy, obliges the banking business and farming interests to modify many opinions which they have regarded heretofore as absolute. First of all, instead of saying and believing that there is trade within our own territorial confines to satisfy us, they accept the fact that strong mercantile combinations against us and enormous debts to us have already placed us in the contest. Although we might wish to remain isolated, self-defense arbitrarily spurs us to energetic competition. The United States holds about one-fifth of the world's gold. Controlling this money automatically established trade relations with the debtors. Preferential tariffs among groups of countries constitute detrimental alignments against us. We must defend our interests, and, as we have the means to be potential, the logical policy is to realize the best and most of all the opportunities presented to us.

It is not at all remarkable, after the situation is thoroughly analyzed that twenty-three cities of the Middle West and the Mississippi Valley have memorialized President Harding for an American-owned and American controlled merchant marine. It is not remarkable that President Harding, at the earnest suggestion of Chairman Lasker of the Shipping Board, is studying means to maintain an American mercantile fleet. It is not remarkable that congress, after receiving most valuable and significant information from the tariff commission as to preferential-tariff combinations, deferred tariff legislation until a reciprocal plan could be devised. The United States is now a leading factor in the world's commerce. We cannot afford to be negative in our operations. We must be competent both to protect and promote our commercial welfare among the nations. American ships sailing all the seas and American banks in the chief financial centers of different countries are necessary adjuncts.

WORDS AND IDEAS

Mrs. Myrtle Koon Cherryman, of Grand Rapids, Michigan, has found, after studying the dictionary of evenings that her vocabulary consists of 31,500 words. Most persons, among them regular writers, have but a few thousand words at their command, and there are many successful business men, who, if their speech is a criterion, use only a few hundred, and do not always use these few with literary or practical discretion.

The poetic philosophy, amazing knowledge and entrancing imagery of Shakespeare were produced with 15,000 words, but he had the genius of combining them so that his sentences sparkle like strings of blending gems. "O rose of May," "how soft the moonlight falls across the bank," "the quality of mercy is not strained." "I know a bank where the wild thyme blows, but yesterday the word of Caesar might have stood against the world." All are simple words, but the ideas are charmingly expressed.

Style, which is the art of expression, is something of the mind and soul, and not so much of the words. Wealth of words is an asset, but a vocabulary is, after all, merely a reservoir of memory. The Michigan investigator, who is a clever writer, did not overestimate the importance of a vocabulary. With her rummaging through the dictionary was play.

Mrs. Cherryman would agree with us that good books of literary excellence cultivate the clearest and most captivating manner of expressing ideas. With a sparsity of words the noblest ideas may be conveyed in a pleasing style. The difficulty is to use words judiciously and melodiously, as did Irving and Addison. To visit Westminster Abbey with these two celebrities of style is a delightful lesson in the choice of words.

WAR AND POPULATION

Germany is the first country to publish full details of the effects of the war on population. The census shows that Germany in October, 1919, had 60,412,084 inhabitants.

On the basis of normal increase in population, Germany would have had an additional 11,013,909 people, had there been no war, says the analysis made in Berlin.

That is Germany's actual loss. Money losses and indemnity do not count for a great deal, viewed with the perspective of centuries. What really counts is war's death toll—in battle and behind the lines.

THROWING HUMAN LIFE AWAY

White males, who have reached the age of 10, can expect on the average to live 50 years more. A generation ago, the figure was only 46 years. The life of man has thus been increased four years in about a generation, says the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

Woman's gain has not been as great. Her life expectancy is about 52 years, a gain of a trifle more than a year and a quarter. But she still leads man. This prolonging of life, says the insurance company, is the result of campaigns of health education and public health service.

In the meantime the campaigns against tuberculosis, cancer, venereal and other life taking and life shortening diseases go on with comparatively indifferent support from the public. Science and the laboratory are working ceaselessly to perfect measures and instruments for the suppression and prevention of fatal diseases, and they are making progress, but the public as a class takes only a mild interest in their achievements and when asked to cooperate makes but a feeble response. To the man in the grip of cancer or tuberculosis or syphilis, ailment medical research has a deadly reality, but to the man headed in the same direction, unaware of his fate, it means little or nothing.

That is why medical inspection in the schools is opposed by many. It is why health measures of the municipality are frequently ridiculed or defied. The public often is more zealous of personal liberty than of personal health. The insurance companies, which have reduced life expectancy to almost mathematical exactness, know that public work pays. They know that medical research and education in personal care pay, because they can reduce the results to dollars and cents. Life may be a cheap gamble with the individual, but it is no gamble with an insurance company.

If conservation of health and life pays in dollars and cents, it certainly pays in an element of waste, an element of tragedy, perhaps an element of ignorance, in every death which occurs before sixty. We ought to so live that we could put the limit of expectancy at seventy or eighty. How many of us as individuals or collectively as citizens are so living as to bring this about?

THE UNITED STATES SHOULD BUY THE BERMUDA ISLANDS

While the Bahama and other British West Indian islands have commercial and climatic justification as a part of the British empire, the Bermuda Islands have not.

The Bermudas are small coral reefs which can not even support human life without artificially collecting the rainfall into cisterns. Such trade as they have is with the United States.

The Bermudas form a powerful naval base on the east side of the Atlantic ocean, a naval base with relation only to the United States.

They form a base on which to defend the American coast line or from which to attack it and blockade it. They should be American, for they have no other honest reasons for existence. The United States should buy them with some of the money owed by Great Britain.—CHICAGO TRIBUNE (Ind. Rep.)

KNOWLEDGE PICKED UP

I quote two passages from a letter from a girl whose education has been thorough in one direction and sadly neglected in another:

".....I go through agonies for four days and am partly disabled for 10 days. Mother tells me there is nothing to be done. That God intended women to suffer the way and that it is perfectly natural.....but I know my suffering is not natural, because of 20 girls in my high school class (I have graduated) only two of us suffered in any way.....and mother tells me that if a girl even walks across the floor in her bare feet, much less ventures to bathe during menstruation, she is sure to take cold and develop tuberculosis."

".....Mother won't tell me anything.....she says she can't talk about such things and that I will find out for myself in time, at least as much as I should know. All I have ever learned is from the girls at school talking, but I won't be able to pick up anything that way any more. I am 19 and I think I am old enough to know something....."

If God intended that all women should suffer in the way this young woman describes, it is a singular fact that in these wicked modern times about nine-tenths of the women escape God's wrath in that respect. The reason that 18 out of each 20 young women do not suffer is that they are getting more exercise and wearing less injurious clothing nowadays. The delicate, fainting type, with her hideous wasp waist and her prodigious fear of cold, wet, drafts, night air and such bugaboos, is only a memory now, and the girl of today is ashamed to faint even when she sprains an ankle or barks a shin. Corsets have become not only a superfluous, but to a considerable extent passes, and the fashionable figure now is coarser, or as good an imitation thereof as the poorly trained woman can achieve.

The policy of the mother as described by this particular girl, is a weak one and a wicked one. The mother attempts to conceal her incompetence by passing the buck to God. That is not the right conception of God for a mother to teach her own daughter. Then, too, the mother in this instance plays that deplorable role of Madame Evanson, when her own daughter, her own flesh and blood, comes to her for the instruction and knowledge to which the girl is certainly entitled. Mother says, "You'll find out all you ought to know in due time." That is not a motherly thing to say. The girl tells us how she is finding out—she is "picking up" information by listening to the idle talk of other girls. Possibly she may learn a little of the truth in that way, but as a rule the things a girl learns in that way are not true at all, but hideously false: she "picks up" tainted information which can only do her harm.

Now I understand how very, very difficult it must be for a mother to teach her daughters the sacred truth about life. I realize that this is a task for which only God can at least take her daughter into his own confidence and if incapable of instructing the child, then frankly telling her so and advising her to ask a woman physician to enlighten her. And few mothers are so utterly incompetent that they cannot learn, by a little study of books especially written for the purpose, how to tell a daughter the story of life.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The Physic Habit

What can be given a three weeks' old baby for constipation that will not harm it? (Mrs. B. E. N.)

Answer.—Nothing that I know of. It is a serious matter to give an infant so young any kind of physic or laxative—resort to such things in early infancy not only establishes the constipated habit, but seriously upsets the fine functional adjustment of the whole digestive process.

Food and Acne

Please tell me what foods a person with blackheads and pimples should not eat. (D. E. K.)

Answer.—I know none. There was an old theory that fats and "rich" foods in general were objectionable, but there is little foundation for restricting the diet. Young persons with acne need fats and rich foods. Send a stamped addressed envelope and suggestions will be mailed to you.

TABBED WITH THE SAME STICK

The London Times property rebukes French publicists who have suggested diplomatic bargaining between France and the United States at the approaching Washington conference, as exponents of reprehensible Metternichian diplomacy. Now if that organ will impress the improbability of such a course on British statesmen, it will render the cause of permanent peace a genuine service. For, according to the record, both French and British diplomats are in this respect tabbed with the same stick. No nation has proved more adept at basement diplomacy than Great Britain. Secret treaties that have nearly won us as ready as any other to strike concealed bargains. So, when the London Times berates French publicists for daring to suggest a bargaining policy, it should be careful to extend its warning against old school diplomacy to the statesmen of its own nation. Those who live in glass houses should not throw stones, until they are prepared to move into less precarious quarters.—NORFOLK VIRGINIAN-PILOT (Dem.)

The Paper Situation

By Frederic J. Haskin

Washington, D. C.—When you pay two dollars or more for a book that would have cost you but a dollar and a half five years ago, and when you pay twenty-five cents for a magazine, that used to cost you fifteen cents, and when your old reliable daily paper goes up from one cent to two cents, you may place a large part of the blame on the American spirit of reckless waste, as exemplified in the ruthless cutting of forests to make paper pulp.

American business, complacent about its world-beating efficiency, actually exhibits many cases of recklessness hardly less creditable than that of the man who climbs out on a long limb and then "saws it off" beneath himself and the trunk. The paper manufacturers of the United States are now out on such a long limb. Ninety-five per cent of the mills which make our news print paper are located in New England, New York and the Lake States. Each of these establishments, we are told, represents capital value of from three to five million dollars. And each of them faces the sad fact that the forests upon which it has been depending for a supply of pulp are rapidly becoming depleted. There are enormous quantities of pulpwood available in the West and in Alaska, but the mills, with a few exceptions, are in the East. Hence the facts that the United States is becoming each year more dependent upon foreign sources for its paper supply, and that during the war there was a paper famine which drove useful publications into bankruptcy, and boosted the price of everything we read.

Such a situation would be inevitable in time of war if we had not an adequate supply of pulpwood in this country. But we have the pulpwood in great quantities. The whole trouble is that the woods in the neighborhood of the mills have been exhausted by reckless cutting and new mills have not yet been established in the West where there is plenty of wood. In this situation, the publishers are showing an increasing tendency to take the matter of paper manufacture into their own hands. Several large papers own their own mills. A large number of smaller concerns are banded together to buy their paper cooperatively, and may ultimately make it that way. A southern newspaper recently printed an edition on paper made of southern gum pine, which had been especially ground for this purpose. The resultant paper was not of high grade, but it served the purpose and showed that the South is not dependent upon either northern or western woods. The development of a special process for grinding and pulping the southern woods would greatly improve the paper made from them.

Need Independent Supply

It is especially undesirable to be dependent upon other countries for a paper supply. Not only is war or embargo likely to cut it off, but a paper supply should be free from any taint of political control, in the interest of complete freedom of the press.

In this situation some urge a high tariff on paper and pulp so that the industry in this country may build itself up to the point where imports are unnecessary. Others say that this is economically unsound, and unjust. With enormous supplies of pulpwood at his disposal, the American paper maker, they say, should be able to complete successfully with the foreign paper maker, who has smaller resources for the most part, and has ocean freight to pay in addition. To protect a tariff, they urge, is merely to encourage the American manufacturer in his wasteful habits and make the publisher and the public pay the bill.

At present large imports of paper are coming in from Germany and are said to be selling for about what it costs the American mills to produce the same grade of paper.

This is partly due to the rate of exchange—a temporary advantage to the German manufacturer, which will in time disappear. But it is a lesson in conservation which America should take to heart that Germany, a small and thickly settled country, is able to send large quantities of paper to this country and undersell the domestic producers.

Germany can do this because she conserves her forests. The Germans are the best foresters in the world. They would no more cut a forest down to the last tree than they would shoot a herd of valuable dairy cattle. The forests from which they are now taking pulp wood, to the sorrow of American manufacturers, have been yielding a regular supply of wood for many generations. They are cultivated as any other crop is cultivated. And they yield more wealth per acre per year than any of our forests. Had the American paper makers practiced a similar forestry on their holdings in the Lake States and New England, they would not now have any cause to fear foreign competition, according to experts in forestry.

Must Reforest

As it is, the only way to save the huge amounts invested in northeastern paper mills is to reforest the surrounding lands, these men say. They add that the supply of Canadian pulp, on which these manufacturers are drawing, will not last nearly as long as has been supposed, with paper consumption increasing every year. The Canadians conserve their supply of pulp woods somewhat better than we have done, but pulp wood as a crop is of slow growth in Canada. It is said that a piece of land which has been cut over without destroying the stand will be ready to cut for pulp wood again in 40 years in Vermont. In Canada it would take 80 years for the trees to reach the same size because of the shorter growing season each year.

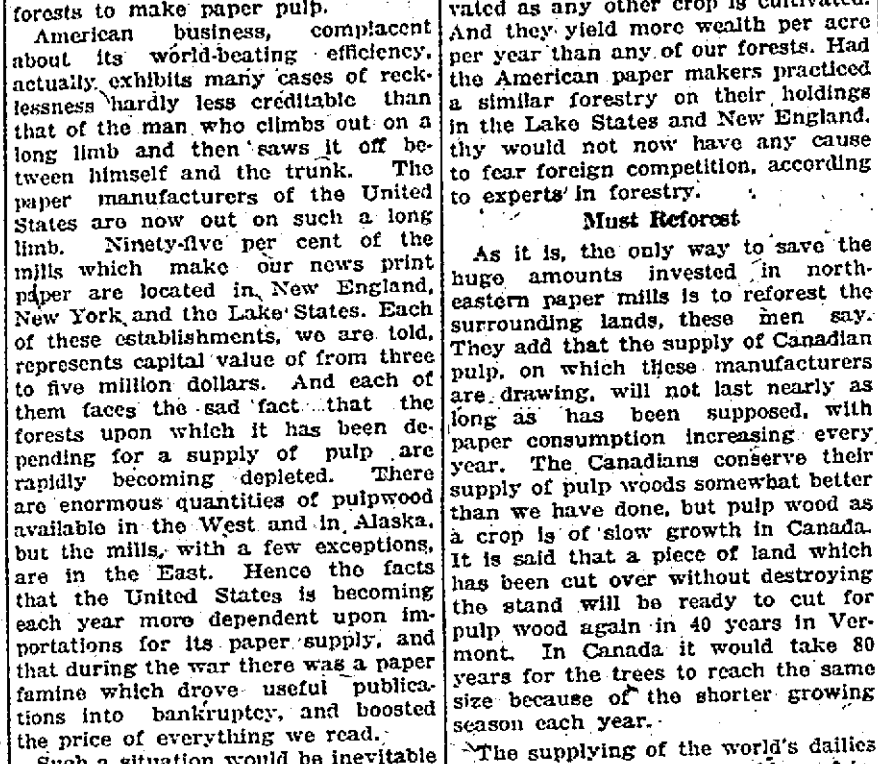

The supplying of the world's dailies with paper is the great problem of industry. If you look closely at the paper of which your daily is made you will see that it has a faintly fluffly surface. This is necessary in order that the paper may absorb the ink at the terrific speed with which a newspaper is printed. In order to have this fluffly, absorbent surface, the paper must be made of pulp which is ground. Paper of a sort may be made of any kind of wood, but only certain woods will stand the grinding process. Pulp from the other woods is made by a process of chemical reduction.

The only woods which have so far been shown to stand grinding well are various spruces and hemlocks, though some Jack pine and lodge pole pine are now used. A certain amount of chemical pulp may be mixed with the ground pulp, but the ground pulp must be the basis for news paper.

Book paper and wrapping paper are made from a much larger variety of woods, and the forestry experts say that the great southern pine forests will probably make the South eventually the center of the wrapping paper and book paper industries.

The daily papers remain dependent upon northern forests where spruce and hemlock grows. In addition to the northeastern forests which now furnish most of our supply of these woodstuffs, there are immense unused quantities of them in the Rocky Mountains, the Coast Ranges and in Alaska. The supremacy of the Scandinavian countries in the paper business is due to their possession of large spruce and hemlock forests which are carefully conserved. Thus Sweden ranks next to the United States as a paper producer, with Norway and Finland following in order named. Sweden and Norway are producing all the paper they can without permanently injuring their forests. The production from Finland may be expected to increase somewhat.

In this, as in so many other matters, Russia is the great unknown. There are vast spruce forests in Russia that have not been touched. When that great country emerges from her political convulsions into an orderly economic development, she will probably become the greatest paper maker in the world.

- Q. What city in the United States has the lowest relative humidity? R. C.
- A. The Weather Bureau maintains only about 200 stations in the United States where observations of the relative humidity are made, and hence it is not practicable to state positively which city in the entire country has the lowest humidity. Among the reporting stations, however, it is probable that Yuma, Arizona, is the lowest as a whole. In some of the desert valleys of southern California it is probable that the relative humidity is lower than at Yuma.
- Q. What are the symptoms of ptomaine poisoning? O. L. B.
- A. Headache, pain in the muscles, nausea, thirst, intense pain in the stomach, vomiting and purging are the symptoms of pure ptomaine poisoning. It is that the patient remains weak for a long period, and that recovery is very slow, often requiring several weeks.
- Q. What is the derivation of the name Chesapeake? Y. C.
- A. Chesapeake is an Anglicized version of the Algonquin Indian Kiche-sepiack, meaning country on a great river.
- Q. What are call ducks? O. C. F.
- A. Call ducks are the bantams of the duck family and are kept for exhibition purposes and for use as decoys in wild duck shooting. They are especially suitable for the latter purpose when crossed with the wild Mallard or some other "buddle" ruck. There are two varieties of call ducks, the gray and the white.
- Q. Will you inform me whether Alexander Dumas was a negro? S. J. R.
- A. Alexander Dumas (Dumas Pere) was the grandson of Marquis Alexandre Dumas de La Palletterie and a Haitian negro.
- Q. What size is a chamote? A. J. L.
- A. The chamote is about the size of a large goat, but the neck is longer in proportion and the body is shorter. The flesh of the chamote is highly esteemed and its skin is made into leather. The original "chamote skin" being obtained from this animal.
- Q. When was Shackleton knighted? M. G.
- A. Sir Ernest Henry Shackleton was knighted by King Edward VII.

Offering this Value at the price we do reminds us of the story of the Auctioneer who was selling the horse. "How much am I bid?"—"Will some one start it?"

There was a pause—then a voice from the rear said "TWO DOLLARS."

"Gentlemen, Gentlemen," protested the auctioneer, "THIS HORSE IS ALIVE."

This is the liveliest shirt value we know of in the city and it's only a question of how long they will last.

New patterns—just unpacked. All sizes.

A Resume of American Newspaper Opinion

As Business Men View Europe

Pertinent to the work of both the unemployment conference and the armaments conference, and to the ratification of the peace treaty, in the opinion of editors is the report which a committee of the Chamber of Commerce, of the United States has just made, following its investigation of business conditions in Europe. The importance of this report, the editors writers here view it as that it deals wholly with the economic situation, and that its non-partisan nature, as affects American policies, is guaranteed by the fact that the committee was composed of men of various political faiths. While the report contains nothing new, the press feels that the conclusions on industrial and economic conditions which the committee reaches should be studied by the unemployment conference as having a definite bearing on their problem. It is also brought out in editorial discussion that the recommendation for American participation in the Reparations Commission, in the interest of European stability generally, is worthy of serious consideration by the Senate in connection with the peace treaty.

This report, coming from "experienced business men" the CHICAGO NEWS (Ind.) thinks "will be valuable, because it is both impartial and intelligent," and its recommendations are "practical and sensible." Admittedly they have advanced no new theories, their "discovery" the FORT WAYNE JOURNAL GAZETTE (Dem.) says, being merely a "rediscovery" of what "Woodrow Wilson proclaimed three years ago—that we cannot have prosperity and stability in America until they have prosperity and stability in Europe."

Since the "Chamber of Commerce of the United States is not a Democratic body nor a Republican body, nor a Wilson or a Harding body," the BROOKLYN EAGLE (Ind.) says, "it believes that the non-partisan nature of its findings of its committee 'will strike most people as possible.'"

As the NEWS interprets the conclusions of the committee dealing with commercial and industrial rehabilitation, "the argument is that for the present Europe must be dealt with almost as though it were part of our own country, there is to be any revival in America, or any assured prosperity in America. Before the war, the SPRINGFIELD UNION (Rep.) states, 'European countries transacted about two-thirds of the total international business and purchased more than one-half of the exports of the United States.' Now the committee finds Europe 'operating on a basis of less than one-half of the prewar standard,' and the UNION points out that this has 'tremendous consequences' in its relation to industrial activities and employment in this country.

First among the problems to which the committee gave attention was German reparations, and according to the NEW YORK POST (Ind.) it became convinced that "if Germany is to meet the necessary payments, it is in the interest of all the countries that the payments be so financed as to cause the minimum of dislocation of world commerce," and to this end the "United States must be represented on the Reparations Commission." Accordingly the POST recommends to Senate Democrats an attentive reading of the committee's findings, from which they will draw the conclusion "that their duty to their country and their party coincides in urging the speedy ratification of the treaty," and "refusing to play the game of obstruction Democratic senators will be hastening the time when the United States can enter upon a full and active share in the regulation of the German indemnity problem with which is coupled the recovery of Europe and our own business recovery." The Latin Quarter

Paris—The nearly a century "the passing of the Latin Quarter" has been a favorite theme. Each succeeding generation has liked to imagine that, just a few years before the student life of the university quarter on the Left bank of the Seine had been a dream world of romance, closely resembling the Latin Quarter of Tribby and of La Vie de Boheme.

More than that, the new generation has never been content to live on memories or traditions. It has diligently sought, every time, to recreate the thing that it imagined to have disappeared but a few years back. Serious students of the Quarter are pretty well agreed now that the Quarter never really existed in any such form as the romancers describe. But then serious students have no business meddling in such a question. For that matter any of the stars we see on the fair summer evenings—astronomers tell us—may have ceased to exist hundreds of years ago. That is just before the war began to steal the custom of the antique and storied Dome across the street. The Rotonde is deserted nowadays. The Rotonde is the headquarters of Bohemia. Yet it is a decidedly Americanized Bohemia, and expect for the fact that percent of alcohol are not served in it occupies one might think he had suddenly been transported to Greenwich Village.

The Journey

Mr. Woodchuck said to Mrs. Woodchuck: "We may start at once on our vacation, my dear, for Mr. Sprinkle-Blow has promised to keep the weather dry. We shall go in the direction of blue mountain, and I may as well tell you that you were right about it being cake, as he says the white top that we see is frosting."

"My! My!" exclaimed Mrs. Woody. "Let's be off at once. I have the satchel all packed."

Sprinkle-Blow kept his word and made the weather fine. Not a Nuisance Fairy around anywhere—nobody but kind Mr. Sun and some little winds and a few beautiful fluffy white clouds in a very blue sky.

"This is certainly great!" Wally said every now and then as they went along, mostly in gutters by the roadside where the high weeds threw a shade. "We must be nearly half way there!"

But when they stopped and looked, the mountain seemed to be as far away as ever. But Wally was not easily discouraged and he wasn't going to let a little thing like distance spoil his vacation. And he'd say, "Oh well, our trip will last all the longer. But I do hope it doesn't rain! Speaking of rain reminds me that I'm thirsty," Mrs. Woodchuck. Let's hunt a spring."

Mrs. Woody said that she was thirsty, too, so they hunted one. They found it, back a little way from the road, trickling out of a hill-side. "Um, yum!" exclaimed Wally, drinking his fill. "That's awfully good!" Mrs. Wally thought it was, too, and drank HER fill. They were great drinkers.

Then back to the road they went again and picked up their satchel. "I hope it doesn't rain," said Wally again. "I hope Sprinkle-Blow does not forget his promise."

Serve Macaroni

When planning a meal with macaroni as a part, keep in mind that macaroni is a starch and choose other vegetables and the dessert carefully.

Potatoes should not be included in the menu. The bread should be brown instead of white and the dessert should be of fruit.

Many cooks disapprove of blanching the macaroni after boiling. Perhaps some of the nourishment is lost in the water but the macaroni is white and firm and much nicer in the finished dish.

First Step in Preparing All Macaroni Dishes

Whether it be macaroni, spaghetti or any of their various forms this preparation is the same. Break macaroni in inch pieces. Allow 2 quarts of boiling water for each cup of macaroni and 1 teaspoon salt to each quart water. The water should be put in a large kettle and when boiling hard add the macaroni. Cook about 20 minutes, keeping the water boiling fast. The macaroni should be tender. Drain and pour over cold water. This keeps the pieces from sticking and lumping. Do not let the cooked macaroni stand in water.

Plain Macaroni

One and one-half cups macaroni broken in inch pieces, 1/2 cup milk, 2 tablespoons butter, salt and paprika.

Cook macaroni according to general directions. Put butter, milk and macaroni in a hot pan, season with salt and paprika and reheat. Serve as a vegetable in place of potatoes.

Lanchon Macaroni

One cup macaroni broken in inch pieces, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 cup milk, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper

Don't Put Too Much Faith In Non-Freeze Solutions

Radiator Company Head Declares Best Practice is Drain Radiators

When balmy summer zephyrs glide past the hood and the heat dances upward from the roadway dead ahead, the auto owner need have no thought for the radiator except to see that it is kept full of clear water and that the circulation is not impeded.

But when winter comes down on his annual excursion from the north and Jack Frost lurks in gorges on one's coasts, the radiator becomes a problem which cannot be disregarded. Next to the power plant itself, the radiator is the most vital part of the machine. Performance of the motor depends one-half on the efficiency of the cooling system. Overheating of the motor is hardly excusable if due to improper radiation and scored cylinders, with consequent loss of compression, are costly in that they cause undue wear on other parts of the machine.

Must Prevent Freezing
Freezing of the radiator in winter is the bugaboo that haunts the motorist constantly. In most cases it is hardly practicable to drain the radiator every time the engine is stopped so "non-freeze" solutions have been resorted to. John Wollenberg of the Appleton Radiator Works, blames most freezing of radiators on the implicit faith motorists place in non-freeze solutions. A man fills his radiator with a solution according to directions and takes it for granted that the radiator is "fixed" for the rest of the winter.

In fact, Mr. Wollenberg declares, non-freezing solution is non-freezeable just as long as it doesn't freeze and here's where the factor of evaporation is frequently overlooked. The principal ingredient in non-freeze solution invariably evaporates far more readily than water. Even where no steam is perceptible at the cap, the fluid which is the safeguard against freezing is making an invisible escape. If the radiator is refilled frequently the solution becomes nothing but water and a disgruntled motorist wakes up some winter morning to find his radiator ruined.

Evaporation of "anti-freeze" in a solution may require several days or maybe only an hour. If the motor overheats the least bit, the solution may become worthless in a few minutes. For this reason it should be tested frequently as a precaution. How "Non-freeze" is Made
Wood and denatured alcohols are the chief ingredients of many "non-freeze" solutions. If the autoist mixes his own, one part of alcohol to one part of water makes a mixture which will not freeze down to 30 or 25 degrees below zero.

Point, however, varies with atmospheric condition, so several degrees should be allowed. Glycerine may be added liberally to this solution to retard evaporation of alcohol.

Most patent "non-freeze" mixtures are injurious to the radiator, Mr. Wollenberg said, for the reason that they contain acids which corrode the metal and destroy the rubber in the hose connections. He believes that any "non-freeze" mixture at the best is costly. Where a machine is used constantly during the winter, he estimates that the cost of anti-freeze solutions would amount to not less than $3.50 per week.

Much radiator trouble, Mr. Wollenberg declares, would be avoided if motorists would refuse to be misled into using radiator powders and preparations to stop leaks. The powder may stop the leak but more than likely it blocks the water passages and impedes or even prevents the water from circulating.

Powders Cause Freezing
Many frozen radiators result from the use of these preparations. When the car is put in storage for the winter, the motorist goes through the form of draining the radiator but if he has been using a non-leak preparation there is usually considerable water retained in the blocked passages and disastrous freezing follows. If the radiator leaks ever so little, the radiator repair shop is preferable to any amount of leak-stopping compound and the resultant satisfaction is greater and more lasting.

A foolish thing, Mr. Wollenberg points out is the fact that a frozen radiator is not always immediately recognized as such. During the first few "spins" in early spring it acts all right. Then some day it begins to leak in a dozen places. The reason for this is that the expansion during the freezing process stretched the water spaces to near the breaking point. Later on hot water completes the expansion, breaks occur and the radiator is little better than a sieve.

A few motorists use pure kerosene in their radiators in winter, Mr. Wollenberg said, but the danger of this practice is so great that it would be inadvisable.

MENASHA COMPANY HAS FOUND CAR IT WANTS

A satisfied customer always is the best advertisement that a merchant possibly can secure. The Valley Motor Car Co., distributor of the Studebaker car, has received a letter from the Menasha Motor Car Co., a bus and transfer company, which sings the praises of the Studebaker in no uncertain terms.

Here is what A. W. Borenz of that company has to say:
"I would be lacking in appreciation if I failed to tell you of the wonderful service I have received from the Studebaker cars."

I have five Studebakers in the Taxi and Buss service with an average load of five passengers and baggage. Two Sedans have been driven better than 50,000 and 100,000 miles over rough roads and heavy grades, rain or shine, in making my daily schedule and numerous trips. Despite this very heavy usage, its gasoline consumption has been very economical and, including the time required to burn carbon and make minor repairs, the cars have been out of continuous daily use less than one week.

Our Studebaker cars are now in excellent running condition, and my patrons and myself have long since learned by actual experience to confidently depend upon them to handle our business.

When I consider that I have driven these cars in all kinds of weather, thru heavy snow, and under a wide range of road conditions, I feel sure that I have received more than money value.

The cars have stood the test of time and traffic and have clearly proved their worth to the public and to me—proved to be the best by test—I have decided to replace all my other cars with Studebakers.

66,000 MILES IS RECORD OF UNITED STATES TIRE

The best fully authenticated record ever made by an automobile tire was recently reported to the United States Tire company by the Kansas City branch office of J. D. Adams & Company of Indianapolis, manufacturers of road building machinery.

"We are just abandoning a U. S. Royal Cord Tire, size 34 by 4," says their letter, "after it has performed a phenomenal service of more than 66,000 miles on a Buick car, and has never had a repair."

"We bought this tire during 1918. It did two seasons' service on country roads in northeastern Missouri for one of our salesmen canvassing a territory. In September, 1919, the car was moved to Kansas City and has been used daily within the city ever since. Just now this tire is being removed and discarded. We are going to present it to you that you may examine it."

"It will further interest you to know that at the time this tire was put in use, a mate to it was put on the other rear wheel. The latter has never blown out and is now being carried for a good spare."

AUTO MAKERS TO USE FEWER TIRE SIZES

Automobile engineers have decided to use fewer sizes of tires and rims as original equipment on passenger cars in the future. The reduction in the number of sizes will result in decreased costs to the tire and automobile manufacturer, to the dealer and to the automobile user, as less money will be tied up in machinery and finished products.

The sizes which will not be used in future production are the 32x3 1/2, 33x4 and 33x4 1/2 inch rim sizes and 32x3 1/2, 33x4 and 33x4 1/2 inch regular and 33x4 1/2 and 34x5 inch oversize tires. The 30x3 1/2 inch straight side rim and the 31x4 inch oversize straight side tire, which have not been considered standard sizes in the past, will be used in the future. Automobile engineers have by this action limited themselves to the use of five rim sizes and nine tire sizes for passenger cars and the same number for motor trucks.

The action outlined above has been taken by the S. A. E. tire and rim committee, members of which represent the Rubber Association of America, the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce and the Society of Automotive Engineers. The recommendation is still to be approved by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce and the Society of Automotive Engineers, but as it has met with the approval of the Rubber Association of America and of the automobile engineers interested, its final approval is assured.

CYLINDER HEAD TOOL

An easy way to lift a cylinder head from its position is to use two old spark plug shells, fitted like the one shown. A piece of one-half inch rod can be shaped like a small handle and threaded so that it will fit into the top of each plug.

CORD TIRES GIVE MORE MILEAGE PER GALLON OF "GAS"

Tire Company Tests Prove That Larger Tires Result in Economy

Cord tires bring more gasoline mileage.

Tests conducted by tire manufacturers have proven the superiority of the cord over the fabric tire is due to the fact that the cord tire is normally oversize. Result, less revolutions of the engine are required to carry the car the same distance with cord tires as are needed with fabric tires. The saving of fuel is evident.

For example, a cord tire sold as a 32 by 3 1/2 is equal in diameter and cross-section to an oversize, or 33 by 4, fabric tire.

In changing from fabric to cord tires, careful attention should be paid to this fact. Where an oversize fabric tire has been used, the cord replacing it should not be the same size.

In other words, a 32 by 4 fabric on a 32 by 3 1/2 rim should not be replaced with a 33 by 4 cord. For this size cord would actually be equal to a 34 by 4 1/2 fabric tire and would be much too large for the rim.

The marked increase in the circumference and cross-section of the tire may produce an unfavorable getaway and pulling power, and therefore less fuel mileage. Since the cord tire is heavier than the fabric of the same branded size there also is greater resistance against the engine's pull. A pound of weight at the rim of the wheel is equal to five pounds resistance at the hub.

For this case, therefore, the cord tire should be a 32 by 3 1/2. That is, a cord tire the size of the rim is equal to an oversize fabric.

Waste Oils Springs

If a piece of oiled waste is placed between the springs and the frame, it will keep the spring oiled for several days. The jostling of the car squeezes the oil out of the waste. The oil seeps into the spring and works out to the tips of the leaves.

NEW TOPS AT REASONABLE PRICES

TAKING USED CARS IN TRADE PART OF BUSINESS

"People generally are no more concerned in what becomes of the used motor car than they are of what happens to yesterday's newspaper, and yet it is a vital part of the business of every automobile dealer to day," declares William Timm of the South Side Garage, local Dort dealer. "Of course, selling new automobiles is our main business and yet the greater percentage of the cars we sell depend upon the taking in trade and disposition of a used motor car, and I firmly believe that this will continue to be the case as long as automobiles are bought and sold. We, therefore, no longer consider the used car a temporary problem but a permanent part of our business, and I believe that the people who buy used cars are justly entitled to some sort of guarantee that they will get value received in a used car as they are that they will get a good value in a brand new one."

REO CAR WINS BEAUTY PRIZE AT WHEAT SHOW

Taking prizes in a beauty contest is a new and rather unique roll played by a Reo sedan and touring car. But this is what happened at the International wheat show in Wichita, Kansas, the other day, and a description of the beauty parade has just been received by Edward Schneider of the Appleton Motor Co., local Reo distributors in a letter from the Wichita distributor.

The Reo touring car was entered in the $1,000 to $2,000 class, and the new sedan was entered in the $2,000 to $3,000 class. The points upon which the judges based their decision were appearance, smoothness of operation and ease of control. The Reo sedan took first prize and the new Reo light seven outranked everything in its class. The automobile fashion parade and contest were features of the wheat show in Wichita. More than one hundred cars of different makes were entered in the show.

Studebaker

This is a Studebaker Year

We have been asked the question how we account for the tide of Studebaker popularity which has swept the country.

Among others, two fundamental causes explain it:

1. The outstanding cause is the value of Studebaker Cars, in quality, style, performance, durability, and price, demonstrated by the complete satisfaction and enthusiasm of nearly one-half million owners who know values.
2. The universal respect for and confidence in the integrity of the name STUDEBAKER which for seventy years has been the symbol of quality and fair dealing.

Crowning proof of the dependability of Studebaker cars is reflected in our diminishing business in service parts.

With approximately 116,000 more Studebaker cars in operation on September 1st, 1921, our parts business the first eight months of this year was 3% less than in the same period two years ago.

While our car manufacturing plants operated this year 41% ahead of last year, our service parts manufacturing plant has operated at from one-half to two-thirds of last year.

Studebaker Cars are standing up in service and staying out of repair shops, to a degree-unexcelled, we believe, by any cars of whatever price.

VALLEY MOTOR CAR CO.

APPLETON, WISCONSIN

Lake Shore Baseball League, Near Death, Is Looking Toward Valley

High Salaries and Poor Attendance Have Brought About Doom of Circuit—Manitowoc and Sheboygan Clubs in a Bad Way.

Indications are that the Lake Shore league, for years one of the strongest semi-pro organizations in the country, is about to go by the board. High salaries paid baseball players and poor attendance has nearly wrecked the league. Two Rivers, Juneau and Green Bay have about definitely decided to get out of the circuit. Milwaukee will be dropped out and only Manitowoc and Sheboygan remain and they don't know what they want.

Baseball magnates in Green Bay, Manitowoc and Sheboygan are turning their eyes toward the Fox River Valley league as the only way out of their troubles. Green Bay is practically assured a berth in the 1922 valley circuit but no provision has been made for Manitowoc and Sheboygan. They still have hopes, however of getting into the valley wheel.

Every club in the Lake Shore league lost money last year. Business conditions were none too good in the shore league cities and high salaries ate up the gate receipts. This is due entirely to the managers of the Shore league clubs. Every magnate in the Fox River valley league complained that shore league magnates were constantly offering more money to valley league stars in order to obtain their services. If the shore leaguers paid excessive salaries it was about as much their fault as the fault of the players.

Both Manitowoc and Sheboygan have suggested that a circuit be composed of Appleton, Oshkosh, Green Bay, Sheboygan, Menasha and Manitowoc. Fond du Lac and Kaukauna, two cities included in the local conception of a valley league, are excluded from the shore, fan's circuit.

There is no assurance that either Sheboygan or Manitowoc will be represented in teams next year. Affairs are in a mighty uncertain state in both towns.

"Everything is very uncertain in Sheboygan at the present time," the Sheboygan Press says. "It is very possible that the city will be without league representation at all and its entry into any league depends entirely upon the stand taken by the team directors."

Need New Deal
The Manitowoc Herald-News declares that "a new deal is necessary if Manitowoc is to have a team next year. Steps must be taken to assure the proper financial support or no one can be found to take charge of the team."

It is sufficient to all baseball fans who have been following the game in this valley that a "new deal" will be necessary in this circuit too if the league is to be well supported. The impression which some of the magnates seem to have is that home players, regardless of ability, are not nearly as good as men imported from other cities. Is one thing which does not ride well. Fans and players here cannot easily see why local players should not receive the same salary and consideration accorded players of equal or even less ability imported from other cities. A few more home players, if they are available, would go a long way toward stimulating interest and attendance.

The evident intention of valley league magnates to keep all their transactions a dark secret doesn't ride well either. Fans like to know what their clubs are doing and how their league is faring. This practice of covering up as followed this last year hasn't made any friends for the league or for the team owners.

BRAUTIGAM WITH BRANDTS ON SUNDAY

Sylvester Signed to Play Outfield Position for Oshkosh Overalls

When the Oshkosh Overalls come here Sunday afternoon, loaded to the curvatures, for the last game of the season with the Brandts, they will find the Appleton gang pretty well loaded also. Owner Brandt hasn't lost much time in gathering in all the stars available to bolster up his squad to end the season with a win.

The latest acquisition is George Brautigam, manager of the Winnipeg team of the Canadian league, who will cover third base. George is some fielder and is pretty handy with the stick. He is counted on to be a big factor in the game.

Durain will play his usual position in centerfield, with Beyer and Laedike in the other gardens.

Harry Sylvester has been signed to play in the outfield for the Overalls. Indicating that Manager Stockbauer has gathered in a few stars on his own hook.

CADDOCK TO WRESTLE ZBYSZKO FOR MAT TITLE

One of the feature wrestling bouts planned for the coming winter will bring Earl Caddock, former champion of the world, to Armory G to meet George Hill. Fans, therefore, will be more than mildly interested to know that Caddock will make an effort to regain his title when he meets Stanislaus Zbyzsko, present champion, at Des Moines, Iowa, Tuesday evening, Oct. 18. The match is to go to the winner of two out of three falls.

Caddock has been training in the west and says he is in good shape. Zbyzsko has recently returned from Poland and is working hard for the match.

WABASH THROWS FEAR INTO ARMY

Powerful "Little Giants" Give Army Team Its First Real Test of Season

Westpoint, N. Y.—A mysterious football power came out of the west today to give battle to Army.

Wabash, with an early season football record that put fear into the Army supporters, arrived here with its "mystery team." The Army supporters gave it the name "mystery team" because it was untried against eastern elevens.

French, the star Army back, was out of the game with an injured knee, enhancing the chances of the westerners. The Army lineup has not been definitely announced.

The football experts of the east maintain the Army is "too tough" for Wabash.

The game is looked upon as the first real tryout for the Army team. They have met no opposition thus far this season.

The westerners have been touted as a forward pass aggregation with an "inside tackle" propensities. Wabash uses the direct pass from center, something that the Army has been specializing against.

Major Daly, the coach and his assistants, have been short of kickers since French dropped out of the game. The kicking today probably will be done by Gilmore, who gets away good so far as height and distance are concerned, but it is not too good on control.

McLaren, Dodd and Ives are the back field men on whom the Army will rely.

JOHNSON PILOTS WEST POINT TEAM

"Eddie" Johnson, quarterback on the Lawrence football team last year, has made the first team at West Point, according to word received by Beta Sigma Phi brothers at Lawrence.

Johnson has been promoted through the several teams at the military school until he was running the second team before the game last Saturday. In that game he was put in as quarterback with the first team, over the man who held the position and two sub-quarters. The man whom Johnson displaced was the captain of the team.

"Eddie" will be remembered in Appleton as one of the pluckiest players on the Lawrence squad last year. In the college, he is remembered as one of the most prominent and well liked students. His home is in Milwaukee.

Sport Views And News

The Cubs have started making their 1922 baseball machine and Alexander is the first twirler to put his John Hancock on the contract. Grover Cleveland is a pretty sweat pitcher yet despite his many years of service in the big leagues and if he is given any kind of support he should turn in many a win for the Cubs next season.

Bob Meusel, the Yankee outfielder, won't have his world series baseball spoils all to his lonesome. Dan Cupid struck him out cleaner than Nellie or Barnes did in the diamond classic and he is booked to marry a Los Angeles girl just as soon as he can cross the continent. Well, there is more than one way for a ball player to bury his sorrow.

Judge Landis scored a home run when he came out with the announcement that he favored a short series. Seven games are plenty to play for the championship. Interest tends to drag a bit after the fourth and fifth games and lopping off two contests wouldn't hurt anybody's feelings except the club owners and who worries about them anyway. They pull down chain galore while the series is underway.

The color line is still drawn in St. Louis. The School of Engineering football team, Milwaukee, had a negro playing center and their St. Louis opponents threatened to cancel the game if the colored center participated. One of the Virginia colleges pulled the same trick on Harvard last spring protesting against Ned Gourdin, track star, and the Crimson called off the trap. In our opinion that is just what the Milwaukee school should have done.

Tomorrow the "Yale-Harvard" game of Wisconsin professional football will be played at Green Bay between the Packers and Beloit Fairies. It is one game of the season that the fans look forward to. Beloit has an edge on victories in past years but this time out, the Green Bay eleven stands a good chance of coming out a victor. Dope counts for nothing in this struggle because both teams go at it hammer and tongs and the eleven that gets the breaks usually cops the verdict.

LAWRENCE TEAM IS IMPROVING WITH EVERY DAY

Development of Squad Has Been Slow and Careful—Beloit Next Saturday

Lawrence college today is playing its last football game before starting the conference season with Beloit next Saturday. Oshkosh normal school is furnishing the opposition at Lawrence field. The high school was to meet the Lawrence freshmen team in a preliminary game.

The college squad has been developing by slow stages since the start of the season and should be in conference condition by a week from today. The coaches have taken their time and drilled the men carefully in fundamentals before teaching them intricate plays. They believe the team now has a strong foundation on which to build a complicated offense.

Much stress was placed during the week now ending on defensive play and the results are apparent. The men are tackling with more precision and the blocking is more deadly. There is every reason to believe the squad will sail through the conference season with as much success as last year when it finished the year unscathed, except for the opening game with the University of Wisconsin.

BILLY SHADE GETS IN LIMELIGHT IN EAST

By United Press Leased Wire
New York—The east today hailed Billy Shade, San Francisco's light heavyweight, as a possible rival of Tommy Gibbons and a runner up for Carpenter's crown. He smashed his way to a decision after 15 hectic rounds with Fay Kaiser, Cumberland, Md., in Madison Square garden last night.

Shade carried ten of the rounds easily.

GOOD PROFIT FOR U. S. IN WORLD SERIES GAME

New York—The world's series netted Uncle Sam a handsome profit, but not so much as the Dempsey-Carpenter boxing bout. Frank K. Bowser, collector of internal revenue, announced Friday night that the tax collected on the eight world's series games amounted to $90,023. The bout brought in $188,770 in taxes, he said.

Twelve field inspectors of the revenue department kept tally on the attendance at the ball games and checked off the sales of tickets with the baseball management.

Here Are Leaders In 1921 Baseball

Old Man Time has the baseball crown all shined up, but he doesn't know whether to stick it on one of the stars in the American League or a National League ace for services rendered during the season of 1921.

Rogers Hornsby ought to get the first peek at it for being the "sweetest" swatsman of either league, topping the averages with .395. This is the highest batting percentage reached since 1899, when Delahanty, of the Phillies, led the league with .408.

But Ty Cobb, the "Georgia Peach" steps into Hornsby's shadow, demanding recognition and deserving to be marked at the top of all the greats. For Cobb has just pulled through his sixteenth complete season with the Tigers, and finished with a marker of .390. His pupil, Harry Heilmann, topped him by .0003 of a point for the American League hitting record—the first time a right-hander ever beat Cobb, who copped the batting honors in Ban Johnson's league 11 times in 14 years.

Frank Frisch of the Giants dusted down the path with 54 stolen bases, and George Sisler led the American League with 34. "Sis" was the only man to steal four bags in a single game. George also got 10 hits in 10 consecutive trips to the plate, a record for the season.

George Kelly, also of McGraw's squad, did on three occasions the stunt that every player longs to duplicate and that even the best of them failed to do in 1921—he slammed out three home runs, at three different times with the bases full, all in a single season.

Carl Mays of the Yankees is the 1921 pitching ace, although Red Faber of the White Sox tied with him in victories, each having 27. Ed Rummel of the Athletics was the cellar pitching champ with 23 defeats. Smith of the Phillies had the greatest losing streak, when he dropped eight games in a row. Babe Adams sent the mercury up the other way when he won eight contests in a row.

GEORGE SISLER WAS THE ONLY PLAYER TO STEAL FOUR BASES IN A SINGLE GAME

IN 4 TIMES AT BAT BANCROFT SLAPPED OUT A SINGLE—DOUBLE—TRIPLE AND A HOME RUN

ILLINI AND IOWA IN BIGGEST GAME

Hawkeyes Confident of Victory—Notre Dame Clashes With Purdue

By United Press Leased Wire
Iowa City, Iowa—Bob Zuppke, who parked his Illinois football squad at Cedar Rapids overnight, brought them into town early Saturday for the battle with Iowa in the most important conference game of the week. The Hawkeyes were confident of victory, following their triumph over Notre Dame last week. Fifteen thousand were expected to witness the game.

Notre Dame Crippled
La Fayette, Ind.—The championship of Indiana was at stake Saturday when Notre Dame met Purdue on the Boilermakers' field. Several Notre Dame players were still out of the lineup as a result of injuries received in the Iowa game last week. The Boilermakers were confident of success as a result of their showing against Chicago last week.

Men on Hospital List
Columbus, O.—Star half backs of Minnesota and Ohio State will be on the hospital list Saturday when the two big ten conference elevens meet here for the first time in football history.

"Red" Blair of Ohio State is suffering from a torn ligament in his left knee and Arnold Oss, Gopher strongman, has the same ailment.

Michigan Confident
Ann Arbor, Mich.—The Wolverines expected to have an easy game Saturday with the Aggies. The Aggies were defeated by Albion college a week ago. The first real test of the strength of the Michigan squad will come in the game with Ohio.

KEJAWA LEAVES VALLEY FOR POSITION IN WEST

Stanley Kejawa, catcher for the Oshkosh team of the Fox River Valley league, has been lost to baseball in this valley. Kejawa, with his family, left this week for Chico, Calif., where he will be master mechanic for the Diamond Match Co.

The catcher had a disagreement with the Oshkosh management toward the end of last season and left the team to play with the Wisconsin River Valley league. He was one of the most dangerous batters in the Fox valley circuit.

MAT SEASON OPENS HERE OCTOBER 28

Kara Osman Matched to Meet Hill in Armory G Within Two Weeks

The wrestling season will open in Appleton on Wednesday, Oct. 26, when George Hill, who recently returned to Appleton, will meet Kara Osman, the Armenian champion in a finish match in Armory G. Osman is at present in Miami, Fla., where he was training. He is expected to stop in Chicago on his way north for a new days' work before coming to Appleton.

Osman is a big man and has met most of the good wrestlers in the country. His only defeat was in a match with Stecher who won in straight falls. Osman is said to be in the same class as Mahmoud.

Hill has started training for the bout and says he is in good condition. Hill has started road work and is working with the wrestlers at Lawrence college.

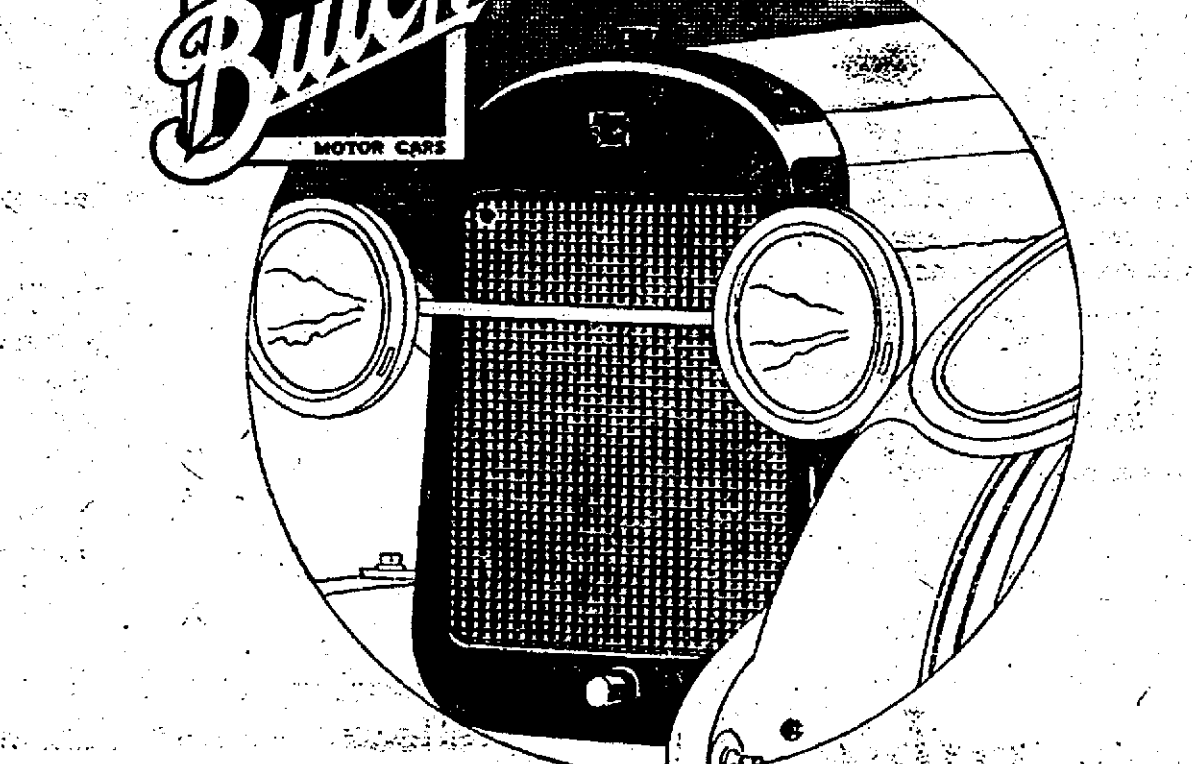

The big fellow is much interested in the efforts of Paul Martinson to secure another match. Hill says he is willing to meet the big Dane at any time and on any conditions.

He also is eager for a shot at Freiberg, who won from Martinson here last summer. Freiberg has won one match from Hill.

In one minute and thirty seconds in the initial round of a scheduled 12-round bout here last night. Gibbons floored Allen twice in the round with vicious left hooks and the referee halted the fight to save Allen from humiliation.

DIES NEAR END OF TRIP TO APPLETON

Miss Augustine Neumann, on Way to This City, Drops Dead in Chicago

Returning to Appleton after 21 years' absence to visit her father and sister, Miss Neumann and Mrs. Hannah Olmsted of 774 Spring-st., New York, died suddenly in the Illinois Central depot in Chicago Friday evening.

Miss Neumann had just entered the depot after leaving the train on which she made the journey from New York. Her sudden death is attributed to an acute attack of heart disease.

She left her home in Appleton 21 years ago and took up the profession of clothes designer. She had not seen her relatives here during this time.

The body was sent here from Chicago Saturday afternoon and the funeral will be held Monday afternoon at Riverside chapel. The Rev. L. Schrockenberg will conduct the services.

PERFECT PACKAGE MONTH IS PLANNED BY RAIL CARRIERS

Special Effort to be Made in November to Improve Packing Methods

A nation-wide "Perfect Package" movement will be conducted by the railroads, steamship lines and the express carriers of the United States and Canada during November, which will be known as "Perfect Package month". The shipping public of Appleton will be asked to cooperate in the campaign.

An announcement to this effect was made Saturday by a joint committee consisting of W. N. Kimball, local agent of the American Railway Express Co. and W. B. Basing, local agent of the Northwestern Railway Co., Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad Co. and the Soo line.

This committee has taken the matter up with the chamber of commerce and arrangements have been completed to enable the shippers of Appleton to make a good showing in the movement.

The purpose of "Perfect Package month" is to enable the carriers to aid shippers in their packing problem.

Somewhere in downtown business section, a considerable sum of money in bills. Liberal reward for return to Appleton Post-Crescent.

lems, and to help improve the transportation service of the country.

During November, the railroads, steamship lines and the express companies will examine the conditions of all freight and express shipments and record the faults of shipments, which do not come up to the general classification of "Perfect Packages."

Special report blanks for freight and express will be made out for shipment in some detail of good shipping, and these reports will be sent to the shippers of the packages. A summary of all exceptions found during November will be submitted to the chamber of commerce for examination and tabulation.

At the conclusion of the movement, the record of each city during the month will be tabulated and published broadcast. The leading city will be exploited because of its perfection in shipping methods.

Every city or town throughout the United States and Canada that ships by rail and water will be informed of these plans and be asked to aid in carrying them out. The entire working organization of all of the railroads and express companies, are also to be enlisted in the campaign comprising a force of nearly 2,000,000 men.

INDUSTRY HELD BACK BY HIGH SURTAXES
cipal bonds are tax-free. Under the federal constitution, congress can't touch local securities. Accordingly, billions of dollars are tied up in municipal bonds that ought to be available to private business.

The full realization of the agreement made by the senate leaders last week to make the surtaxes about 50 per cent is beginning to dawn on the administration which is likely to express itself very strongly on this point before long. The house bill made the surtaxes about 32 per cent which with the addition of 8 per cent normal tax made the total federal tax about 40 per cent. This too is considered high, but the fact is the government found a ready market for its securities when that figure was under discussion. The moment the proposal was made, however, to go higher—to a 50 per cent surtax plus an 8 per cent normal tax—the saturation point was evidently reached—men with money no longer considered the railroad bonds offered for sale by the government worth buying when other tax-exempt securities were available.

The treasury department had fully expected to dispose of $250,000,000 worth of railroad securities. Everything went fine during the recess of Congress but the new tax program has knocked the bottom out of the government's aspirations. And the worst part of the situation is that the executive branch of the government is trying hard to bring about a business revival is handicapped by the attitude of members of congress who are mostly concerned with a bill that looks well in print, a measure that seems to relieve the moderate incomes but "soaks" the people with capital. The viewpoint of the former is economic, the latter is purely political. President Harding alone can reconcile the two and before the tax program is finally completed, his intervention is expected so that a bill may be framed not for the benefit of a class but the whole country.

BIG CAR BURNS AS IT RUNS INTO FORD

City officials returning by automobile Friday afternoon from the convention of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities at Janesville, witnessed an accident at Oak Grove on Oshkosh-Besha road, in which a large touring car was consumed by fire while large numbers of autoists and passengers on an interurban car looked on.

The large machine was owned by Robert Pitter, Fond du Lac, and was ignited after a collision with a Ford coupe driven by Mrs. W. T. Brand, Oshkosh.

Mrs. Brand was driving westward from a side road to the main concrete highway and Mr. Pitter was going south. The lighter car struck the larger one on the side and both went into the ditch. The larger car came back into the road and turned completely over on the concrete and took fire. Mr. Pitter was accompanied by George Metel and both men crawled out from under the car, suffering only from superficial injuries. The Ford coupe was also damaged but Mrs. Brand and a woman companion did not appear to be injured and left on foot to catch an interurban car to the city.

WOMEN SHOULD HAVE OPINIONS OF THEIR OWN
Closing the twenty-fifth convention of the Wisconsin Federation of Womans club which has been in session in Appleton since Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, former president of the General Federation of Womans clubs, made a plea for public opinion which may be turned to the problems of Americanization. The music number on the final program included selections by Prof. Ludolph Arens, the Fullenwider String quartet and songs by Winifred Willson-Quinlan.

"There can be no true prosperity in a republic without an intelligent public opinion," said the club leader. "What is public opinion? It is the consensus of what intelligent public opinioners are prone to take their own opinions ready made from others. To have an opinion of one's very own means research and genuine thought. Therefore, if you have not labored, you have no right to take someone else's thought and claim it for your own. Your country demands your opinion, not the opinion of another."

In explaining the ways of gaining opinion, the speaker emphasized reading, not one side of a question but both sides, of talking about it and then actually thinking about it. She told of the wonderful fruits of table conversation and its effect on the children in the home. Upon the information picked up in the home depends much of the child's attitude toward authority and government. She urged the women to be thoughtful provokers as the old fashioned meaning of "lady" denoted.

"There is a general desire on the part of the men of the country over the view women will finally take in regard to formal party lines," continued the speaker in discussing the inclination of women to remain free from party alliances so that they may not be committed to the wrong man or the wrong principal. "Never mind how devoted some women may be to party, with the masses of women in principle of justice, the document of human rights, rises above party lines. Women resent also the fact that certain matters have been dragged into the political mire that should have been free from such entanglements. Take for example the peace treaty and the league of nations. I unhesitatingly say that in my opinion the majority of women of this country felt that it was a fatal mistake to make this a party matter, that if the voice of the people was needed, these same people should have been given the opportunity to vote on this one matter alone."
